Cops learn defense tactics

By Tech. Sgt. B. Coors-Davidson
355th Wing Public Affairs

In an initiative to support the overwhelming task of protecting the general public and to assist with law enforcement training, Davis-Monthan recently hosted a three-day civilian law-enforcement training seminar.

Sponsored by the U.S. Customs Service, more than 200 officers from federal, state and local law enforcement agencies and about 70 members of the 355th Security Forces Squadron attended the training Sept. 4 through 6.

Officers learned advanced techniques of preparedness for armed confrontations and high-risk traffic stop tactics.

"The mental preparation for armed confrontations seminar provided training for officers to learn effective techniques and tactics," said Kyle Barnette, U.S. Customs Service Office of Investigations special agent in charge. "Issues of violence, the potential for violence and recognizing these potential Tuesday our nation suffered a terrible tragedy. Air Force men and women, active duty, Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve, responded immediately and superbly across the globe. From our medical professionals who saved lives in the shadow of the Pentagon, to our airmen who launched from alert facilities, we can be proud of our performance. Our job now is to remain ready, to set an example of strength for all America, and to remain alert as we continue our global mission. Carry on.

Terrorists strike Pentagon, New York

Firefighters and emergency teams battle smoke and fire at the Pentagon following a suspected terrorist attack when a commercial airliner crashed into the building at about 10 a.m. Tuesday. The building was evacuated, along with other federal buildings in the Capitol area, including the White House. The attack occurred about an hour after two airliners struck the World Trade Center twin towers in New York.

D-M members share Air Force experience

By Tech. Sgt. B. Coors-Davidson
355th Wing Public Affairs

Ten Davis-Monthan airmen were selected by Air Combat Command to represent the Air Force throughout the country as part of a new high-tech traveling show.

The Air Force Experience, an interactive attraction aimed at bolstering recruiting efforts and reconnecting the Air Force with the American public has been making stops at more than 40 cities. D-M members have been manning many of those stops.

The AFE comes complete with an authentic F-16 "Fighting Falcon" that has been specially configured with folding wings to fit in a tractor-trailer that boasts eye-catching Air Force graphics.

Another tractor trailer accompanies the F-16 and comes complete with an interactive computer room, flight mission briefing room and a fleet of F-16 flight simulators that let visitors fly a high speed "virtual" mission.

"This is an opportunity for airmen to represent the Air Force in locations where most people have no real knowledge of what we do," said Capt. Karin Johnson, 355th

Logistics Support Squadron Logistics Plans Flight commander and AFE participant. "In addition to seeing an F-16 and experiencing the simulators, these people get to talk to people who have chosen the Air Force as a career."

Air Force officials selected more D-M members for the Air Force Experience than from all other ACC bases combined. Those selected were required to have their commander's recommendation and were recognized for epitomizing the Air Force's "No One Comes Heat and humidity, or cold, dry weather can trigger a migraine headache. A passing storm front, or a change in barometric pressure can also cause the onset of a migraine for some. Even the change of seasons can trigger a migraine.

How many women are affected by domestic violence? According to one report, nearly two-thirds of females in the population have been attacked by a family member or an acquaintance. In fact, domestic violence is the leading cause of injury to women between the ages of 15 and 44. (Courtesy 355th Medical Group)

UPAR Spotlight

UPAR responsibilities

UPARs are responsible for being the "eyes and ears" of the public affairs office. Each and every squadron on base has unique individuals in it that have an interesting story to tell, whether it is about sports, awards, lifesaving acts, IDEA program contributions, etc.

Each of your squadrons are also making improvements to the methods or processes that they use or to squadron facilities or community areas via self help projects. UPARs are responsible for getting the information to the public affairs staff in a usable format and in a timely manner.

Not every idea is going to get picked up. The 355th Wing/PA staff focuses on issues that effect the base populace in general, but it never hurts to present ideas to your squadron UPARs so that they can judge the input for newsworthiness or unique human interest appeal and forward it to the staff.

The following are some of the areas 355th Wing/PA hopes to utilize UPARs to better tell your squadron's story (based on skills):

- ◆ Provide news ideas as well as write and shoot photos of squadron activities for submission to the base newspaper;
- ◆ Review and solicit Hometown News Release submissions;
- ◆ Review their squadron's submissions to the base TV Channel (75); and
- ◆ Seek volunteers for tours and speaking engagements

"This week I salute the 355th Security Forces Squadron and their augmentees who ensured the security of this installation following one of the darkest days in American history, and all American military members who protect the freedom of this nation."

Supporting each other and working together to provide the best programs and services is a common goal we all share as members of Team D-M.

Ideas, suggestions, comments and kudos are an important ingredient for continuous improvement.

The fastest way to pass along comment or to get an answer to your concern is to contact the agency chief or functional manager listed here.

Still no solution? The Commander's Corner phone line is available 24 hours a day, at 228-4747, or you can send an e-mail to us at: 355thWing.CommandersCorner@dm.af.mil.

If you leave your name, phone number and a message, you'll receive a prompt reply, either in writing or by telephone. We will honor your confidentiality, but sometimes we need to contact callers to gather additional information. If your concern is of general interest to the base populace, the response may be published in the Desert Airman. Anonymous calls may not be published in the newspaper, we recommend you leave a contact phone number if you'd like us to provide an answer.

Downtown gym
Concern: I am in the self-improvement exercise program, and I want to know why we can't get the blue cards filled out at off-base gyms. I don't like the gym on base; it smells and is nasty. I pay $25 a month and just renewed my membership, and now I have to go to the gym on base.

Response: Under the Air Force Fitness Program, personnel entered into the Self-Directed Fitness Improvement Program are not required to use the Fitness Center on base to work-out. They can choose and when they work out because they are in the self-directed, non-supervised exercise program, in accordance with Air Force Instruction 40-501.

Personnel entered the Monitored Fitness Improvement Program are required to go to the Fitness Center on base a minimum of three times per week to work out. This is because the MFIP is a mandatory, supervised exercise program. MFIP attendance and progress is tracked on Davis-Monthan AFB Form 50, Exercise Activity Log (blue).

This form must be filled out by Fitness Center staff members and maintained in the Fitness Center office. We strive to maintain the Haeffner Fitness and Sports Center in a clean and sanitary condition at all times. If you encounter a specific problem or concern during a visit to the center, please notify one of the staff immediately and we will take care of it. Information on the SFIP an MFIP can be obtained from the HAWC at 8-5003. If you need additional information on the Fitness Center, please contact Robert Gibson, Fitness Center Director, at 8-4556.

Concern: I have tried to get the Commissary on the phone several times and cannot get through to them. I want to know why I can't get through to anyone.

Response: I understand your frustration. We investigated the answering system and found it was working properly at the time we checked it for its operability. We fully understand that electronic phone systems can be frustrating, therefore a list of extensions follow which will make it easier to contact the commissary. If you have any further questions, please contact Michael Howell at 8-3244.

Gas prices
Concern: Why are the gasoline prices on base the same as the "outside" stations?

Response: The Army Air Force Exchange Service policy requires weekly surveys of at least five service stations, deemed by the local General Manager to be the competition, and establish the AAFES price equal to the lowest price surveyed. This sometimes means we sell gasoline below cost. Overall, our prices are fair and competitive with the local community, yet allow enough income to cover operating expenses and generate monies for the morale, welfare and recreation fund for our service people.

"With more than 3,500 charitable agencies listed, it is practically guaranteed that everyone can find something of interest to them," said Maj. Bradley Byrd, 355th Wing CFC coordinator.

This year, D-M's campaign goal is $350,000. More than $330,000 was raised last year, and of that, more than $33,500 was designated to D-M agencies.

Six on-base agencies were listed with the CFC last year, and have increased to seven this year. They are (designation account number in parentheses): the D-M Food Locker (4009), Operation Warm Heart (4012), the D-M Officer's Spouses Club (4011), D-M Friends of Family Advocacy (4010), Family Services (4008), the Youth Center (4013) and the Airman's Attic (4007).

"This is a wonderful way to help your local community by designating your contribution dollars right where you live and work," said Byrd.

"It's important to note that your contribution can be designated to the charities you choose. Individuals may have objections to some charities, but if they 'designate their dollars' not a penny of their gift will go to any charity unless they choose it," said Byrd.

Contributors can check out www.cfcaz.org for more information. The Web site is currently under construction; once complete Web surfers will be able to search the brochure for their favorite agencies or search by keyword. Campaign volunteers have been trained and are set for a great six weeks," said Byrd. (Courtesy D-M CFC committee) situations were closely examined using demonstrations, case studies and numerous police videos."

The high-risk traffic stop portion of the seminar used training videos, lecture, demonstrations and audience interaction to teach techniques including dealing with tinted windows, stopping unique vehicles such as motorcycles and tractor trailers and recognizing clues of a possible assault. The training also covered self conditioning techniques to best insure instinctive movement by officers.

"The intent of the training is for officers to leave the training more confident, aware, alert and prepared to detect, avoid and effectively deal with a critical incident," said Dale Brown,

U.S. Customs Service Office of Investigation assistant special agent in charge. "We train to save lives and give officers an edge."

Working side-by-side with their civilian counterparts, 355th SFS members participated in both segments of the training and also took care of all the logistics of hosting such a large event for such a variety of law enforcement agencies.

"Although, much of what was covered in the training was not necessarily scenarios that Air Force Security Forces people deal with on a day-to-day basis, each of our participants learned how to be better prepared if a violent situation should arise," said Maj. Chris Bargery, 355th SFS commander. "Also, since so many Security Forces people move on to law enforcement agencies after their Air Force career, the value added by this type of training benefits both the Air Force and the civilian community."

Hispanic Heritage Month festivities begin

Hispanic Heritage Month is a period to commemorate and acknowledge Hispanic contributions to this nation. It begins by the president's proclamation of Hispanic Heritage Month.

This year's proclamation is Sept. 14 and it will be celebrated from Sept. 15 through Oct. 15. The theme for this year's proclamation is "Paving the Way for Future Generations."

"Teaching about the contributions of Hispanic Americans helps all of us understand and appreciate the uniqueness of each culture by exposing us to cultural activities and events," said Staff Sgt. Jose Rodriguez, 612th Air Communications Squadron.

Minorities in this country are rapidly increasing and succeeding in all walks of life. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, more than 10 percent of the national population is of Hispanic background and is growing almost five times faster than the general population.

By 2050, it is estimated 25 percent of the population will be of Hispanic background.

For example, there are 1.3 million Hispanic-owned businesses in the United States, generating $200 billion in annual gross receipts. The Hispanic market represents $356 billion in purchasing power.

"No wonder major companies are making the Hispanic market their main target. In politics, the Hispanic community is known as the 'sleeping giant' and is actively being pursued by politicians in order to gain that extra 'vote' that can make or break careers but more importantly, bring change and improvement to many traditionally Hispanic neighborhoods," said Rodriguez.

Hispanic Americans are not all descendents from Mexico, or Cuba or Puerto Rico. It includes them but it also includes peoples from all the Spanish speaking countries to the south as well.

"Celebrating and participating in ethnic heritage events can only strengthen the union of all Americans while educating everyone on the various cultures that contribute to our American Culture. We invite all D-M members to help us celebrate this year's Hispanic Heritage Month," said Rodriguez.

Commander, Air Combat Command

Tuesday, our nation suffered a grave tragedy. Our sympathy goes out to all those touched by this devastating event.

Air Force men and women, with cooperation of their sister services and civil authorities, reacted expeditiously with genuine concern and numerous acts of bravery.

Our continued compassion will see us through this difficult time. We ask that all bases across the command lower the flag to half-staff starting Wednesday in remembrance of those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

It is our responsibility as the men and women of Air Combat Command to stand tall, to set the example, and to be ready.

Close" motto.

The exhibition is in its second year and began this tour in January. It was an idea conceived by retired Gen. Lloyd Newton, former Air Education and Training Command commander.

"The AFE has received overwhelming, positive response from the public and potential new recruits," said Brig. Gen. Duane Deal, Air Force

Recruiting Service commander. "Taking the display to places where people rarely get a first-hand look at the Air Force helps build a greater understanding of our advanced technology and the associated job skills that can be learned by joining our team."

The show makes contact with about 3,000 people at each stop and visitors come away with a commemorative Air Force Experience photo Identification card, an Air Force coin and a mini-compact disk that contains an overview of the Air Force, screen savers of Air Force aircraft and a link to the Air Force web site.

Air Force responds to terrorist attacks

The Air Force is working around the clock to coordinate relief to victims of terrorist attacks that took place Tuesday.

Secretary of the Air Force James Roche contacted the Federal Emergency Management Agency immediately following the first reports of these attacks and offered maximum Air Force assets including personnel and equipment.

The Air Force is mobilizing medical critical care units, aeromedical evacuation teams, and critical incident stress management experts and other airlift assets in support of the president's activation of the National Disaster Medical System.

Expeditionary medical support teams are mobilized in response to the disasters. Teams from Langley Air Force Base, Va.; Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio; Keesler AFB, Miss.; Lackland AFB, Texas; and Travis AFB, Calif., are being positioned at various staging facilities. These teams comprise portable hospitals composed of surgical teams, critical care specialists and public health teams, and other specialties.

Additionally, the Air Force is assisting with the distribution of blood supplies to the locations where they are most needed. Locations of the staging centers are not releasable at this time due to security concerns.

305th RQS on duty in Turkey

F-16 pilot gets 'promise' fulfilled

By Col. Kent Clark

305th Rescue Squadron commander

A little over a month ago an Air Force F-16 pilot was cruising along in his jet over Eastern Turkey.

Like most of his fighter-pilot brethren, he gave little thought to the ground beneath; he was detached from the terrain and all its inhabitants.

Life was good.

But life, even a good life, has a way of splashing cold water in the face of those enjoying it.

The engine sputtered and quit, the cockpit got eerily silent, and he began his final decent.

Imbedded deep in Air Force tradition is the doctrine that if the Air Force places you in an aerospace vehicle, in harms way, and your aircraft has a problem forcing you to eject; or, if the enemy shoots you down, and you bail out over hostile territory, we (the Air Force) promise that we will come and get you.

The Air Force is the only Department of Defense component that dedicates an entire career field to recovering downed aircrews.

The enlisted Air Force Specialty Code is an X1T2, Pararescueman and the newly designated 13D3A Combat Recovery Officer.

These men are trained to rescue downed pilots under the most severe and hazardous of circumstances.

The primary rescue vehicle used by these men is the HH-60 Blackhawk, some of which are maintained and flown by the 305th Rescue Squadron here at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base.

As the pilot mentioned above made his parachute landing on the rocky soil of Eastern Turkey, he found himself in a pretty precarious situation.

The good news is that he wasn't in Northern Iraq, his intended destination.

Tech. Sgt. Brian Coors-Davidson

Col. Kent Clark (right), 305th RQS commander, discusses helicopter operations and maintenance with Tech. Sgt. Jason Burger (left), 305th RQS flight engineer, and Master Sgt. Terry Fleetwood, weapons flight chief.

However, that part of Turkey is a bleak and dreary place.

There is little or no vegetation, only a few inhabitants, and the occasional flock of sheep.

The pilot landed, huddled up, and waited.

He waited for the promise to be answered.

Fortunately for him, the 305th was on duty that day.

As they landed the Blackhawk, he followed his training instinctively; he turned away from the aircraft, got on his knees, and raised his hands.

He was later reported to have said that as he kneeled there waiting, wondering what would happen next, he heard the sweetest words he'd ever heard.

When the PJ put a hand on his shoulder and said, "Sir, my name is Victor, and you're going to be all right!"

Always consider the environment first

By Charles Miller

355th Civil Engineer Squadron

The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 requires the federal government to evaluate how its activities affect the environment before proceeding with the project/work.

It's a federal law, and can stop work on projects if ignored. At Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, are stewards entrusted to preserve the environment at the base by the very public we defend.

To reduce the administrative burden of re-evaluating routine activities which do not significantly impact the environment, the Air Force has obtained approval to exempt this category of activities from further evaluation known as the Categorical Exclusion.

The great majority of Civil Engineering work orders, job orders, and miscellaneous work fall well within the list of activities which can be assigned a CATEX under Air Force Instruction 32-7061.

However, certain actions may require further Environmental Impact Analysis. Any parties interested in the complete AFI may contact the 355th Civil Engineer Squadron at 8-4885.

The following abbreviated list indicates projects which should be forwarded to the Environmental Team for some evaluation under the Environmental Impact Analysis Process, and those which may be given a CATEX and need not be examined further.

Note that after analysis, some of these items may still be assigned a CATEX by the Environmental Team. In those cases AF Form 813 serves to document the CATEX action.

Projects which require evaluation by the EIAP Team

- ◆ Any amount of earth moving, such as grading, trenching, and excavation in virgin desert areas of any size;
- ◆ Activity in an area where DMAFB protected wildlife, archaeological remains, or historic sites may be located. Some examples of these activities are trimming of tree limbs, removal of vegetation or brush, or any earth moving. Protected species areas will be marked by signs. A map is available showing archaeological sites, though these locations are not public information, so that they may be protected;
- ◆ Any construction of a new building or covering of a new area with pavement or asphalt;
- ◆ Use of unproved technology;
- ◆ Use of hazardous or toxic substances that may come in contact with the surrounding environment;
- ◆ Activity in areas of critical environmental concern (e.g. virgin desert areas where activities such as exercises/deployments, herbicide/pesticide spraying, archaeological remains or historic sites) will occur;

- ◆ Expansion of an existing building or structure beyond the five-foot line of its existing area. Installation of new equipment outdoors on vacant land should be sent on for study;
- ◆ Demolition of existing buildings;
- ◆ Non-recurring activities which will result in the significant emission of particles into air or water after the project is completed; and
- ◆ Any action involving land such as easement, lease, rights of way, etc., either with the Air Force as grantor or grantee.

Projects which are easily assigned to CATEX and do not need the coordination of EIAP

- To qualify for CATEX, projects must easily fit into one of the categories below. Do not stretch a fit which could later halt a project.
- ◆ Virtually all paperwork activities, and routine activities within existing facilities such as buying or selling of goods, installing equipment, etc. Even if an activity is resumed after a lapse, it may continue if the process is essentially the same.
- ◆ Any interior or exterior construction within the five-foot line of an existing building;

- ◆ Installing repairing, replacing and operating utility, communications, cable, and similar electronic equipment that use existing rights of way, easements, distribution systems, or facilities;
 - ◆ Installing or modifying airfield operational equipment on airfield property and usually accessible only to maintenance personnel;
 - ◆ All activities regarding personnel reductions or increases if no new construction is associated with the action;
 - ◆ All scientific studies to determine applicable environmental redemption techniques, or routine scientific studies in laboratories which comply with all applicable laws;
 - ◆ Special events, "open houses," airshows, etc.;
 - ◆ Routine transporting of hazardous materials and wastes if done in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations; and
 - ◆ Most flying activities except those involving supersonic flights or modification of flight routes and air traffic patterns.
- The NEPA law does not forbid Air Force activities from impacting the environment, but it does require us to evaluate the impact of our activities and inform the public of any significant detrimental impact.

Attention Personnel Managers,

In response to the overwhelming success of the earlier 2001 Aerotech Expo Job Fairs, and the complete satisfaction of those companies who participated, the third 2001 job fair has been scheduled for Saturday, November 17th. Mark your calendar now and plan to participate in this highly successful job fair that has built a solid reputation for bringing quality applicants together with quality companies.

AEROTECH EXPO JOB FAIR

Sat., Nov. 17th, 2001

Sponsored by the weekly aerospace trade publication Aerotech News and Review, Aerotech Expo 2001 will be held Saturday, November 17th, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Challenger Memorial Center at the Antelope Valley Fairgrounds, Lancaster.

Combining the successful formula from past job fairs and our expanded network of publications will provide your company with an outstanding and far-reaching opportunity.

In advertising and promoting the fall 2001 edition of the Aerotech Expo Job Fair there will be an increased emphasis on reaching the college and university students in the greater Los Angeles area.

This highly successful event draws thousands of skilled job applicants in various fields including engineering, manufacturing, test operations, and related technical support personnel.

Participants from past Aerotech Expo job fairs include Boeing, SST, AIL Systems Inc., Woodside Summit Corp, Northrop Grumman, University of Phoenix, TIMCO, Computer Science Corp, AVTEL Inc., Aerochem, Volt Technical Services, Arcata Inc., Lockheed Martin Skunk Works, Spiral Technology, Inc., New Horizons, O.A.O. Corp, GTE MISTS II, Dimension Aviation, Lockheed Martin Enterprise Info Systems, PDS Aviation Services, Evergreen Air, Marconi, Teledyne Ryan and many more.

As with past Aerotech Expos, advertising promoting the event will be placed in media covering the following areas:

- | | | | |
|----------------------|------------------------------|------------------|------------------|
| • Los Angeles | • Pt. Mugu NAWC | • Ventura County | • Vandenberg AFB |
| • Palmdale-Lancaster | • Port Hueneme NCBC | • Edwards AFB | • Fort Irwin NTC |
| • MCLB - Barstow | • Los Angeles Air Force Base | • Nellis AFB | • Luke AFB |
| • Hill AFB | and surrounding communities | | |

Aerotech Expo job fairs have a reputation of attracting quality applicants at a fraction of the usual job fair cost.

Health Focus

Improve your odds of living longer, better with some simple lifestyle modifications

A healthy lifestyle can have benefits over and above a longer life.

In fact, the payoff can be almost immediate.

The basic elements of controlling stress, eating right, regular exercise and avoiding nicotine, caffeine and alcohol, can have positive effects from day one, noticeable by family, friends and coworkers.

Controlling Stress ... can clear your thinking and allow you to relax.

Taking time for yourself can help you approach situations with more control and get more enjoyment out of life.

You'll likely get a better night's sleep.

Learning positive ways to react to life's inevitable stresses can help reduce high blood pressure, which, in turn, can make you less prone to heart disease and stroke.

Other possible benefits of controlling stress are fewer back and muscle aches and digestive problems.

Eating Right ... helps you to avoid more than an occasional upset stomach.

There's the obvious advantage of weight control when you eat sensible amounts of nutritious food.

Maintaining a proper weight can lower your risk of heart disease and high blood pressure, and studies show that a high-fiber, low-fat diet may help prevent certain cancers and can even help clear up constipation.

Regular Exercise ... can boost your sense of well being, reduce stress, and put you "back in charge" of your life.

Regular exercise can also help you control your weight, quit smoking, reduce high blood pressure, and lower your risk of heart disease and stroke.

Exercise increases the efficiency of the lungs, strengthens the heart and improves circulation, muscular strength, stamina, balance, and coordination.

It can also increase mental efficiency, and give you a general feeling of vitality.

People will undoubtedly notice how good you look once you start exercising regularly—and you'll quickly realize yourself how good you feel.

Avoidance of nicotine, caffeine, alcohol, and other drugs ... offers a wide variety of benefits.

Too much of these substances contribute to tension, sleep problems and poor nutrition.

In fact, quitting tobacco may be the most positive step you could take for your long-term health.

People who quit smoking or chewing tobacco benefit from the disappearance of a nagging morning cough and reduction in their risk of heart diseases, emphysema and several kinds of cancer.

The most immediate benefit of limiting your alcohol consumption is your ability to drive more safely, without endangering your life and the lives of others.

Longer-term benefits are the reduction of the risk of damage to the liver and the risk of developing certain cancers.

Sedatives, stimulants, recreational drugs are all potentially harmful.

So avoidance of these can give you the immediate benefits of living life to the fullest, without the artificial and temporary crutch of illegal or mind-altering substances.

Get the most out of life

It's not always easy to choose a healthier lifestyle. But if you make the effort, you'll begin to reap the benefits immediately. The more frequently you make health-supporting choices, the better you'll feel.

Resources

The Health and Wellness Center, 8-2294, (first floor of Building 4220) has classes and information for active duty, retired and dependants on healthy nutrition, exercise, weight management and tobacco cessation.

The Patient Resource Center, 8-1543, (Medical Group Clinic, Room 104) has computer resources as well as written material on healthy lifestyles and behavior modifications. The Patient Resource Center is a health information resource open to all active duty, retired and dependants. You don't need to be under a health care providers care to use this great health education resource. (Courtesy 355th Medical Group)

Air Force Ball

The Ball scheduled for Sept. 21 will be postponed until further notice due to current world events.

Look your mess-dress 'best' on the big night

By Chief Master Sgt.
Leslie McGowan
355th Medical Group

The ball commemorating the Air Force's 54th anniversary is rapidly approaching. The hard working planners are caught up in the hustle and bustle of final arrangements, and making sure that the event will be fun for everyone. Now it is the time to take care of our personal preparations for this great event. Are you ready?

At the last few formal functions, some first sergeants and chiefs noticed a growing number of people demonstrating creative ways to wear the semi-formal and mess dress uniforms. While we applaud creativity, there are certain times when following the crowd is in your best interest—that is, the crowd that's going in the right direction. First sergeants and crusty old chiefs really dislike making uniform corrections. We really don't want to ruin anyone's evening by pointing out uniform discrepancies. We prefer to have fun. We can help each other.

The prescribed way to wear all uniforms is found in Air Force Instruction 36-2903, Dress and Personal Appearance of Air Force Personnel. If the instructions don't say that you can do something, it means that you can't. Everyone is so busy, and it's difficult to find time to read one hundred and three pages of AFI 36-2903, so I thought I'd clarify some of the more common misunderstandings about semi-formal and mess dress uniform requirements. The mess dress uniform is optional for enlisted and mandatory for officers. At no time is it authorized to remove the jacket of either uniform.

- ◆ The appropriate skirt must be worn with semi-formal and mess dress uniforms; no slacks.

Capt. Joann Spargur (left) and 1st Lt. Gilbert Hinojosa model the Air Force Mess Dress Uniform. Both are assigned to the 355th Communication Squadron.

The hemline of the semi-formal skirt must not be shorter than the top of the knee, or longer than the bottom of the knee. For mess dress, the skirt is ankle length. Both skirts should hang naturally from the hips. If the skirt is too tight, there are two choices; lose weight or buy another skirt. (Be sure the color matches the jacket)

- ◆ Ruffles are out; pleats are in for the mess dress blouse. (See Attachment 3, Phase Out Dates for Uniform Items)

- ◆ Low quarters are tacky at a formal event. Pumps have so much more style, and incidentally, are required with both uniforms.

- ◆ The issue purse, or similar style purse, can be carried with the semi-formal uniform, but a clutch purse must be used with the mess dress uniform. (See AFI 36-2903, Table 2.3 for purse descriptions.)

- ◆ Hair should be above the bottom of the coat collar (that means the end of pony tails too), above the eyebrows, and not extend more than three inches from the head. Accouterments should match hair color.

- ◆ The pleats of the cummerbund are worn facing downward.

For Men (Table 2.1)

- ◆ The old service dress/semi-formal uniform is no longer an option.

- ◆ The jacket and trousers must match in shade and material.

- ◆ The polyester, herringbone tie is worn with the new semi-formal uniform instead of a bow tie

- ◆ No bagging in the seat or bunching at the waist of the mess dress trousers. If you can't sit or breathe, or if you have lost a lot of weight, buy new trousers. The front of the trouser legs rest on the front of the shoe with a slight break in the crease. The back of the trouser legs will be approximately 7/8 inch longer than the front. High water pants went out in the fifties.

- ◆ The cummerbund is worn with the pleats facing upwards. (As an airman, I was told that an easy way to remember the correct direction was that the men's cummerbund pleats were "crumb catchers", thus worn turned upwards.)

- ◆ For men, low quarters are in for both uniforms; no boots please

- ◆ If the length of your hair is questionable, get a haircut

So many of our young airmen are taking the extra step and buying a mess dress uniform. Kudos! But some are making costly mistakes. Supervisors, when your airmen decide to purchase a mess dress uniform, it's a big deal. Get involved! Accompany them to select the proper uniform items at Clothing Sales and ensure the right fit. The sales people can sometimes give advice, but they aren't responsible for the correctness of your uniforms.

I highly encourage our airmen to attend the ball and learn about our Air Force traditions and history. Proudly wear the uniform of the United States Air Force. Have a "ball" at the ball.

Sonoran Spotlight

Name: Maj. (Dr.) Susan Juhasz-Stoll

Organization: 355th Dental Squadron

Duty title: General Dentist

Hometown: Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Years of service: Eight

Why did you join the Air Force: First, the Air Force provided me with outstanding opportunities to enhance my training and education as a dentist. For example, during my first year on active duty, I completed an Advanced Education in General Dentistry residency program at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. This program provided an additional year of intensive training in general dentistry and all dental specialties (ie- oral surgery, pediatric dentistry, orthodontics, etc.). I also joined the Air Force to have opportunities to travel and to practice dentistry within a group practice setting. The camaraderie provided by practicing dentistry with multiple dentists is extremely rewarding to me! Finally, I also pursued a career in the Air Force because I wanted the opportunity to serve my country. My parents immigrated to the U.S. from Czechoslovakia when I was a small child in order to escape the tremendous limitations of that country's Communist government. As I was growing up, they always emphasized the tremendous importance of valuing citizens' liberties and freedom within the United States.

Main responsibilities: My main responsibility is to provide comprehensive dental care/treatment (as a general dentist) to active- duty patients; my scope of care includes restorative treatment, dental examinations, preventive treatment and emergency care.

Best aspects of your job: Without a doubt, the best aspect of my job is my personal interaction with my patients and colleagues.

Career goals: On a daily basis, my primary goal is to provide patients with the most comfortable, highest quality of dental care possible. My long term goals include the pursuit of continued educational training in general dentistry and forensic identification.

Hobbies/outside activities: My favorite activity is spending time with our new baby son! I also love spending time with my family and friends. My other hobbies include traveling, skiing, cooking and antique hunting.

What do you like best about D-M: What I like best about DM is having the opportunity to work with so many great and talented individuals. I have also really enjoyed living in the Sonoran Desert.

What has been your best assignment; why: My best assignment is a tie between McChord AFB, Wash., and Ramstein Air Base, Germany. I met my husband at McChord and we were married in Washington, so that base will always have tremendous sentimental value to me. My time at Ramstein was fantastic because of the wonderful friendships I made and the traveling adventures I enjoyed.

Who inspires you; why: My parents are a tremendous source of inspiration to me because of their wonderful positive attitudes and their strength and perseverance. My husband is also a great inspiration. He is an incredibly supportive, caring individual and has always encouraged me in all my personal and professional endeavors.

Dear Business Owner,

We are all saddened by recent events. Through prayer vigils, blood drives and volunteerism, the whole nation is now gathering to show their support.

Our nation's military and defense personnel are working hard to ensure our future safety, and stand ready to defend America.

As publishers of several aerospace and military base newspapers throughout the Southwest United States, we are, like many, asking "what can we do?"

If your business would like to send a message of encouragement and support to your friends and neighbors at your local military base, call us at any of the phone numbers listed below. Aerotech News and Review and its group of military base newspapers will extend its non-profit rates to you.

We are sure that our readers will appreciate your thoughts and draw strength from your support.

Men's varsity basketball tryouts

Tryouts for the men's varsity basketball team are at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Fitness Center. Call 8-3714 for more information.

Football Frenzy

Football Frenzy is every Sunday, at D-M clubs. Members and guests see their favorite teams on NFL Sunday Ticket while they enjoy snacks, beverage specials, prize giveaways, and a chance to win football weekends (trips are for members only).

National winners travel to Dallas for the Giants game, Dec. 9; New Orleans to see the Super Bowl, Jan. 27, and Hawaii for the Pro Bowl, Feb. 2. Trips include airfare for two, hotel and rental car.

Two other trips are to Disneyland and Disney World.

Sponsors are American Airlines, Miller Brewing, Disney, Destination Arlington for the Dallas game, and the Double Tree Hotel for the Pro Bowl. No federal endorsement is intended.

Call the officers' club at 748-0660, or the Desert Oasis Club at 748-8666.

Golf course closed

The Blanchard Golf Course is closed through Sept. 28; play resumes Saturday, Sept. 29.

Overseeding of the course, and the necessity of daytime watering with reclaimed water has forced the two-week closure.

Both the pro shop and Eagle's Nest Restaurant will continue to be open; pro shop hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and the restaurant is open daily, 5 a.m. to 2 p.m.

To celebrate the reopening of the course, a Putting Shoot Out and social hour are scheduled for Sept. 28, at 4:45 p.m. Early registration for the putting contest is $5. Register at the door for $8.

Call Chris Bowles, director of golf, at 8-3734 for more information.

Leagues at D-M Lanes

Hayley Winn, daughter of Melanie and Tech. Sgt. James Winn, 355th Equipment Maintenance Squadron, participates in Young American Bowling Association league bowling at the D-M Lanes. Kids bowl every Saturday at the lanes, and there are other leagues, including the squadron intramural leagues, which bowl almost every evening through May. Call D-M Lanes at 8-3461 for more information.

Annual Crud Challenge.

Teams ahead after tonight's playoffs will face-off Oct. 5, in the D-M finals.

The number one base team travels to Nellis AFB, Nev., Oct. 17 to 19, to represent D-M at the ACC Championships.

ACC Crud Challenge teams are made up of male and female members of officers' clubs.

Members of D-M's best team win a leather travel bag and $100 club credit. Players on the top three ACC teams receive travel vouchers - $1,000 for first, $500 for second and $250 for third place.

ACC sponsors are Allied Domecq Spirits USA, First USA Bank and the Miller Brewing Company.

For additional details, phone the O' Club at 748-0660.

Swimming hours

D-M's pool is no longer open weekdays.

Swimming is now Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Weekend and holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. for open swim, and 5 to 6 p.m. for families. Lap swimming and water aerobics are Tuesdays-Fridays.

Lap swimming, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., is free for active duty swimmers, and $1 for all others. Water aerobics is 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and costs $2; no reservation is needed.

Phone the outdoor recreation center at 8-3736.

Aerobics, exercise classes

The Haeffner Fitness and Sports Center offers a lineup of exercise and aerobics classes each week (instructor name in parentheses - Free or $ cost). Call 8-3714 for more information.

Fitness training goes mobile with traveling team

Fitness center specialists are benefiting from a mobile technical training course called Fitness Fundamentals.

Tech. Sgt. John Berardi, a fitness fundamentals instructor for the Services Academy at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, said it is a cost-effective method of training.

"This course is required within six months of a person being assigned to a fitness center," Berardi said. "The savings of bringing a mobile technical training course to a base versus sending several people (temporary duty) — and having to paying airline costs, lodging and per diem for two weeks — is significant."

Lackland's Services Academy teaches nearly 20 Fitness Fundamentals courses annually. A team of four instructors rotates to teach at bases worldwide.

The field course is identical to the one taught at Lackland. It has 10 days of sports and fitness training including instruction on body anatomy and physiology, kinesiology (the study of muscle movement) and wellness.

The course's objective: certifying fitness specialists in every aspect of helping people with sports programs, fitness assessments and profiles, proper and safe equipment usage, and quality customer service.

Staff Sgt. Elizabeth Keaton said she enjoyed both the physical and mental challenges of the course.

Airman 1st Class Annie McCormick

Tech. Sgt. John Berardi (left) instructs fitness specialists from Misawa Air Base, Japan, on the proper use of weightlifting equipment.

"The physical part was a good full-body workout, while the information portion was very interesting," said Keaton, who is a fitness specialist.

"It makes me feel more comfortable answering questions about fitness equipment and general physical fitness."

Unlike private fitness trainers who charge for such services, Air Force fitness specialists do it for free. (Air Force News)
